

Bill C-14 Medical Assistance in Dying

I am very much against forcing people to go against their religious beliefs and be a part of the killing of another human being. How can anyone feel safe anymore if one is expected to perform an act that goes against the very fiber of their being. This will put mistrust against the medical people and patients. It is like one is stuck in a mindset and refuse to see there are other alternatives available besides killing. (palliative care for one). It is against the law to have an active or passive role in a crime and to murder/kill someone in the process. When someone is hurting that person needs to know that she or he is loved not put down like some animal. It takes more work and thought to deal with the problem than to just take the easy way out, but the satisfaction one feels when one makes the effort is well worth it.
