Transport Canada recognizes that it may face challenges in meeting the 2050 net zero target due to its complex fleet portfolio and rapidly evolving technologies that could be used to green large marine vessels and aircraft. Because of this, the department updates its Carbon Neutral Roadmap as required, identifying and including new short- and long-term actions as they become available that will significantly contribute to emission reductions. In order to capture significant risks that could prevent the department from reaching the Greening Government Strategy emission targets, Transport Canada will develop a risk management framework that will also identify corresponding mitigation measures, with the objective of having the framework in place by March 31, 2023.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Completion of an updated version of Transport Canada's Carbon Neutral Roadmap and presentation to TC's Greening Government Steering Committee - Completion of the first version of Transport Canada's Greening Government Risk Management Framework and presentation to TC's Greening Government Steering Committee 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - March 2023 - March 2023 	Updating TC's Carbon Neutral Roadmap: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Met with investment groups within TC to review actions relevant to individual groups and seek feedback Completed May 2022 - Seek feedback from NRCan UNDERWAY – anticipated deadline for receiving feedback November 2022 - Seek approval from TC ADM Greening Government Steering Committee March 2023 Creating TC's Greening Government Risk Management Framework: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Identify risks Completed July 2022 - Rank risks UNDERWAY - November 2022 - Present the final framework for approval as well as high level risks identified to TC's ADM Greening Government Steering Committee March 2023 	Adele Cooper, A/Director, Environmental Management
