

MEDIA ADVISORY

Security Awareness Activity in the House of Commons Chamber

February 7, 2018 (Ottawa)

As part of Security Awareness Week 2018, at 12:30 p.m. today, the Parliamentary Protective Service will be conducting an activity in the House of Commons Chamber for Members and core Chamber personnel.

This activity is not open to the media.

Awareness sessions will be offered to members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery at a later date.

-30-

Background:

- Security Awareness Week 2018 runs from February 5 to 9. The theme for Parliament this year is Active Threat. Awareness and preparedness are key factors to ensuring the effectiveness of emergency procedures and the mitigation of risks in the event of a potential active threat.
- The materials and activities prepared for Security Awareness 2018 were developed collaboratively by the Parliamentary Security Awareness working group composed of representatives from the parliamentary institutions.

For more information about the activity in the House of Commons Chamber:

Isabelle Poulin
Communications Officer, Parliamentary Protective Service
613-996-5940 isabelle.poulin@pps-spp.parl.gc.ca

For more information about the House of Commons Security Awareness program:

Heather Bradley
Director of Communications, Office of the Speaker of the House of Commons
613-995-7882 heather.bradley@parl.gc.ca